Milan Bergamo Airport opens the Mura Venete Room

A new lease of life for the room located on the first floor of check-in area A at Milan Bergamo Airport, destined for meetings and press conferences. The Infrastructure Planning, Construction and Maintenance department of SACBO has worked to revamp the areas and render them more functional, modifying the layout of the seating and renovating the walls in light of the room's new name: The Mura Venete Room.

The name is felt to be appropriate for an airport which looks out over the skyline of the Upper City of Bergamo, paying tribute to the recent classification of the Venetian defence walls as a UNESCO World Heritage Site. The room, fitted with a video-projection system and motorised ceiling-mounted screen fitted by the SACBO Information Technology department, has 50 seats and a speakers' table.
