

PASSENGER FLOWS FOR MILAN BERGAMO AIRPORT PASS THE 1 MILLION MARK IN THE MONTH OF MARCH FOR THE FIRST TIME EVER

The month of March 2019 at Milan Bergamo Airport saw more than one million passengers. A recurrent objective for April onwards, reached in the third month of the year for the first time in the story of civil aviation activity for the airport, which began on 27 March 1972, and which, until now has seen 180 million passengers travel through an airport which has been the subject of recent works to bring it into line with operative requirements and, in this stage, of expansion works of strategic importance which are part of the future airport development plan.

1,020,043 passengers used Milan Bergamo Airport in the month of March, 5.6% more than a year ago. In the first three months of 2019, passenger movement reached 2,870,433, with an increase of 4.19% compared to the first quarter of 2018.

The increase in passenger movement is due to the high level of load factor which sees total or almost total occupation of seats on flights to and from Milan Bergamo Airport.

The same period saw a reduction in air traffic regarding night-time freight flights, which in March fell by 72.
